ABSTRACT

A security policy database cache includes at least one primary table including signature values that indicate that a packet's security policy database information may be in the cache and at least one secondary table including cache entries having a selector, flags, security association information and an operation to perform on the corresponding packet for which a cache lookup was made.

10   20637563.doc